NYC General Store and Y.E. S. Present an Evening of Shoes & Champagne

NEW YORK, November 20, 2005 - NYC General Store and Young Executives for Success (Y.E.S.) will host "Shoes & Champagne" on May 17th, 2006 for an evening of shoe shopping, champagne and networking, all while supporting a worthy charity, Dress for Success. NYC General Store founder, Dana Michel, has collaborated with Y.E.S. to produce this private shoe sale.

Social activist retailer, Kenneth Cole has agreed to will host the event which will cater to an eclectic mix of fashion and beauty executives and fashion savvy professional New York City women. Each attendee will be given "VIP" preferential treatment that includes a goodie bag worth over $300. For every two pairs of shoes purchased, one pair will be donated to Dress for Success. To motivate purchases, a 15% discount is granted and there is no entry fee. Apparel can be purchased at regular prices and shoe donations will also be accepted from attendees. Sponsors include Women & Company, W Hotels, Crest Proctor & Gamble and Apple Computer.

"It's really important to have a purpose for an event after work," Michel states. "This is an opportunity to be among your peers, socialize and have fun and it is all for a good case."

Think Shoe Shopping Meets Networking Meets Philanthropy

The benefits are diverse and enormous. "First and foremost, we are creating awareness for Dress for Success as well as receiving badly needed shoes for the women. Retailers benefit by the traffic of new customers and NYC General Store benefits by generating sponsorship money, community and goodwill," explains Michel.
